FUTURE OUTLOOK

Due to significant rise in cost of production, raw material and currency devaluation clubbed with decrease in prices of textile end products and reduced the buying power of customers due to high inflation overall at world level result in making the sustainability of even major players difficult. These factors continue to contribute towards decline of demand of textile products. The prices of Raw cotton are volatile and non-predictable. Textile industry is uncertain about behavior of raw cotton market and prices of input materials.

Keeping in view, in this situation it is very difficult for the management to start the operations immediately coupled with the shortage of working capital and litigation with the banking companies.
